

BIO

With nine years of experience as a sociotherapist in the Netherlands I developed my workshops on networking and communication.

My workshops are a personal passion project to help people cope with the challenges they have in ethical communication, growing and activating their network & non violent conflict resolution.

I helped, trained and mentored individuals and groups to achieve better collaboration, opportunities and co-creation.

TESTIMONIAL

"Joppe and I got acquainted in quite extraordinary conditions: we were campmates at a desert location for a bit over a week. Our camp was about 70 people, and Joppe operated as a COO-type of a person: managing all running things, facilitating decision making on task allocation and cultural issues, and looking after everybody. Notable is, that nobody had addressed him with this role. He simply saw the need and fulfilled it. He was awesome at his job. He got everybody to do their tasks, and at the same time kept the spirit up. As an organizational consultant I noted, how instead of giving out direct orders, he created a culture in which people volunteered for the tasks themselves. He was also a valuable go-to -person when people had a hard time coping with the harsh conditions. Later I learned that he had studied psychology and therapy methods quite a bit and was making use of that knowledge in those sessions.

After our desert experience I have attended Joppe's communications training, which proved his knowledge in themes such as communications, relationships and team work, his abilities in lecturing, but also understanding the everyday life and its challenges in worklife.

Joppe is a host by nature, able to teach and lead people to better organizational culture and also skilled in organizing and managing happenings, events and projects. I highly recommend him for roles comprising any of these elements, but I believe it is this combination where magic could happen. "
